

Privacy in the New Public Sphere (2)

4th December 2020

This event is hosted by the AHRC-funded project Norms for the New Public Sphere, which brings together academic philosophers with media scholars, activists and professionals in order to investigate the opportunities and challenges that new social media pose for the public sphere.

We will discuss two papers (linked) that should be read in advance (short summaries will also be presented on the day). We encourage everyone to contribute to the discussions as much as they'd like and are able, but we know that most of us are working in non-ideal conditions right now so please feel free to drop in and out, and turn your mics and cameras off as you wish. We also encourage you to draw any links with our previous discussion (25 Sept) on the papers by Beate Rössler and Eric Barendt.

Programme

9.30 - 9.45	Introductions
9.45 - 9.55	Brief remarks by Francesca Sobande
9.55 - 10.40	Open discussion of " Memes, Digital Remix Culture & (Re)Mediating British Politics and Public Life "
10.40 - 10.50	Break
10.50 - 11.00	Brief remarks by Helen Frowe
11.00 - 11.45	Open discussion of " Wrongful Observation "
11.45 - 12.00	Closing remarks